

Please note that from 1 April 2022 there will be some changes to the Teachers' Pension Scheme.

Please take a look at our website to find out more and if you are impacted by these changes.

Important information if you've changed employers

Our records indicate that you've recently either changed employers or your LA boundary has changed. This factsheet will help you to understand how your pension may be affected and any steps you need to take with your new employer.

When you move employers, you'll automatically be contractually enrolled in the Teachers' Pension Scheme regardless of any previous opt out elections you've made, and your employer will start taking contribution deductions. If you wish to opt out of the Scheme you can do this through My Pension Online (MPO). If your employer receives the opt out within three months of your start date, it will be effective from your first day of employment. If your employer receives the opt out after the first three months, then the effective date of the opt out will be the first day of the month after the month they receive the opt out. You can opt back into the Scheme at any time by completing an 'Opt in' form.

Past Added Years

If you're currently paying for Past Added years you can continue to do this, but you must ask your new employer to make the deductions on your behalf. Please show them the last letter you received from Teachers' Pensions in which we provided the current level of contributions and the end date of the election.

Faster Accrual

Faster Accrual elections cease when you leave employment. If you had an election in place when you left your previous employment, we'll apply the Faster Accrual rate to the pension accrued up to the date of leaving that employment.

If you wish to re start your Faster Accrual election you have one month in which to make an election in respect of that employment for the remainder of the year.

For example, if you start a new employment on 1 September you have until 30 September to submit an election to us - the election will then apply from 1 October to 31 March.

Please don't ask your new employer to simply continue the same deduction. Without making a new election you'll not be credited for the Faster Accrual of pension in respect of your new employment.

Additional Pension elections

As with Past Added Years, you can continue to pay Additional Pension by monthly deduction of contributions from your pay, but you must ask your new employer to make the deductions on your behalf. Please show them the last letter you received from us in which we provided the current level of contributions and the end date of the election.

If you don't wish to resume the election, then you must inform us. You'll be credited with the amount of Additional Pension purchased up to the point the election was stopped, i.e. when you left your previous employer.

Buy Out

If you were still paying contributions towards a Buy Out election when you changed employer, you've six months to re-start the election with your new employer. Please inform us and show your new employer the last letter that we sent to provide the current percentage rate of contributions to be deducted from your pay.

If you don't wish to continue with the Buy Out election you must also inform us. The election will be applied to the pension accrued up to the point of the change in employer, and when you come to retire this portion of your pension won't have the standard rate of reduction applied to it.

Ensure your personal details are up to date

It's important that you make sure your personal details are correct when you change employers. For example, if you've used a work email address then we'll need your new one (we'd always recommend you use a personal email address).

The easiest way to update your details with us is through your My Pension Online (MPO) account. As well as being able to change your details it allows you to:-
