Notes

Paying for previous service

There are several ways you can choose to pay:

- Method A (periodical payments)

Additional contributions are deducted from your salary and begin once your election has been accepted. The higher the percentage rate chosen, the shorter the payment period will be. If you want to complete the payment sooner, you can elect to increase the rate of deductions. The minimum payment period is 1 year.

- Method B (a single payment)

You pay a lump sum, which must be received within 3 months of notification of the amount due.

What will it cost?

You can estimate the costs involved using the calculation package on the Teachers' Pensions website www.teacherspensions.co.uk

Conditions of payment

You can increase the contribution rate within the applicable limits at any time. However, you won't be able to reduce the contribution rate; and breaks in service (or employment in part-time pensionable employment) will automatically extend the period. If you're in part-time employment and making a new election, the percentage rate contributions will be calculated as the full-time equivalent of your salary.

The additional contributions will be due until all the service has been paid for, irrespective of any change in your circumstances.

If you haven't completed the payment period by normal retirement age, the outstanding contributions will automatically be deducted from your lump sum. If you die or retire because of ill health any contributions up to your normal retirement age will be excused but, any contributions due after retirement age may result in a deduction from any lump sum payable. If you retire prematurely (not because of ill health) you will be given a choice of accepting a service credit for payments made or paying a deduction from your lump sum.

Income tax relief on payments

Additional contributions to cover previous service for family benefits will attract tax relief in the same way as normal pension contributions.

Acceptance of an election

On receiving a valid election, the payment period will be determined by the contribution rate you choose for the amount of service specified. If you decide to pay by instalments, your employer will be notified of the contribution rate, the amount of service covered and the period of payment.

You should check that the correct deductions are made from your salary each month to avoid an overpayment or the need for payment of arrears. Any apparent errors should be queried with your employer immediately.
