Check out our new online Hub

We've created a new Hub on our website dedicated to those who aren't teachers in the Scheme but will interact with us in some way. This may be because they have a dependent's pension, have Pension Credit with us or are an Independent Financial Advisor.

The new Hub provides key details on what they'll need to know and do in their circumstances.

Please take a look and let your loved ones know about it.

If you've any feedback about our new Hub, please let us know.

(This is a new section and we'll be regularly reviewing and updating it).

Transitional Protection newsletter

Over the last few years, we've shared lots of information with you regarding Transitional Protection.

To help you keep track, we've put some of the key messages together in a short newsletter. This includes background information, new resources and retirement planning updates.

Your Benefit Statement

Your Benefit Statement shows your most up to date pension estimate from the Teachers' Pension Scheme. It's important to check it regularly, to make sure all your information is correct.

We're currently working to update our Benefit Statements to show your Transitional Protection options. Please keep an eye out in early 2025, when we'll be launching these changes. We'll let you know on our website when the new look Statements are available.

If you don't have a My Pension Online account, register on our website.

CETV update

We're aware that some members have been impacted by a delay in providing Cash Equivalent Transfer Values (CETVs) and Pension Sharing Orders (PSOs).

We recently provided an update about this on our website.

Get help with MPO

Following the introduction of Multi Factor Authentication for My Pension Online (MPO), we've created a guide to help you navigate the changes and easily get logged into your MPO account.

The guide provides information on how to set up MFA, resetting your details and what to do if you're struggling to log in.

Thinking about returning to the classroom?

If you're currently not working as a teacher but would like to re-join the profession, then 'Return to teaching' can help.

Find out more about them and read stories of other teachers who have returned in our short guide.

Follow us on YouTube

Some people prefer videos to reading guides. That's why we've been updating our YouTube channel to cover as many pension topics as possible.

We've recently added videos about using our new personalised calculator and what to do if you've missing service. These accompany our existing videos such as maternity leave, ill-health, applying for retirement and much more.

More than just pensions

We're here to support you throughout your teaching career.

That's why we have our Lifestyle Hub. It provides resources for money management, financial and mental health support as well as retirement stories from other teachers.

Transitional Protection - Retirement update

If you're planning to retire soon, make sure you read the latest information for members affected by Transitional Protection. Please also ensure that you have your application submitted to us six months in advance of your planned retirement date.
